MODULAR PLUG WITH LOCKING MEMBER

ABSTRACT

A modular plug includes: a mating portion having a latch for engaging a jack; a slidable housing having a first end and a second end, the slidable housing receives the mating portion at the first end and the slidable housing is adapted to slide along the mating portion and engage the mating portion; a cable that is connected to the mating portion and extends through the second end of said slidable housing; and a locking member in operable communication with both the slidable housing and the cable.